Hope Is a Waking Dream

I was in a conversation with a friend and somehow, we began discussing Greek philosophers. It gave me an idea and when I returned home I began looking up different phrases of Aristotle and found some of them to be very musically inspiring.

I created the text reading many quotes and phrases attributed to Aristotle. He wrote a lot about truth and seeking truth and what truth is. He wrote of love and loving well and many thoughts on friendships and relationships. The following phrases include the title, which I think spoke the loudest to me when creating this choral work. How could it not?

“Find the good. See the unity. Ignore the divisions among us.”

“What we expect that we find.”

I hope this piece is a vessel that allows you to open the door of Aristotle's teaching to your singers and audience. I hope the music I crafted around the text inspires you as a teacher and you as a singer. Discuss the text. Dream. Seek truth in your own lives and find the good.
